

Stepan Provides Update on Millsdale Plant Incident

February 27, 2020

NORTHFIELD, Ill., Feb. 26, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- Stepan Company (NYSE: SCL) today reported:

Millsdale Plant Incident Update

On February 20, 2020, the Company announced that its Millsdale plant was forced to stop production of Phthalic Anhydride (PA) and Surfactants due to power outage-related operational issues that impacted the site's waste water treatment plant. As a result, the Company declared force majeure for the supply of PA and certain Surfactant product lines.

F. Quinn Stepan, Jr., Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer, said: "Our team has been working diligently and I am pleased to report that the waste water treatment plant at our Millsdale facility is back in operation, which has allowed us to restart the production of Surfactant products at the facility. In addition, Polyol production remains on line at the Millsdale plant. As we build Surfactant inventories, we anticipate lifting the force majeure by product line. We expect PA production at Millsdale will remain down for approximately two to three weeks and the force majeure declaration for PA remains in effect. We remain committed to working with customers to minimize supply disruptions."
